

March 13 2013

The Canadian Press

Fish farm rejected by N.S. government, risk to wild salmon cited

The Nova Scotia government has rejected an application from Snow Island Salmon to allow a fish farm in Shoal Bay.

Fisheries and Aquaculture Minister Sterling Belliveau says during the 22-month review process, Fisheries and Oceans Canada expressed concern about the salmon farm's impact on wild salmon in the bay near Sheet Harbour.

Read the whole article here:

<http://atlantic.ctvnews.ca/fish-farm-rejected-by-n-s-government-risk-to-wild-salmon-cited-1.1193715#ixzz2NQwQ3a1q>